Campaign underway for Liberal candidate

Glass wins nomination

Although the date for a federal election has not yet been set, Victoria - Haliburton Liberal candidate Bruce Glass was on the campaign trail early last week.

Glass, an outspoken opponent of the Conservative's free trade deal, won the local riding association's nomination by acclamation last Monday night at the Lindsay Legion. And by Thursday he was participating in a debate put on by the Haliburton County Real Estate Board at Locarno Resort on Lake Kashagawigamog.

The Real Estate Board was marking Private Property Week with Thursday's gathering and invited both Glass and incumbent Conservative Bill Scott to address several concerns of interest to realtors and the general public. Scott, however, was not able to attend, although he did send along a prepared response that was read by Ted Saxby.

For Glass, who is a Lindsay area lawyer, this will be his second election bid. He ran against Scott in the 1984 election and was handily defeated as the Conservatives were swept to one of the largest majorities in Canadian history.

Until very recently, Scott had said he was not sure whether he would be running again. However, the Victoria - Haliburton Progressive Conservatives

Residents fight for road paving

If residents of Highland Gate Estates want their roads paved by the municipality, they must either fight their case in court or elect a township council that sides with them.

About 25 residents of the Minden subdivision attended an informal meeting last Monday night where they were told that this council is not willing to provide the estimated $42,000 it would take to pave the two roads. Although a 1982 bylaw indicates the roads have been assumed by the municipality, Anson, Hindon and Minden Townships Reeve Sinc Nesbitt still considers them to be private and insists it is the responsibility of the residents to pay for the paving.

The 1982 bylaw seems to make a clear case for the residents. It states that the township will assume Highland Gate Boulevard and Knob Hill Court into the roads system, be responsible for maintenance and hard-top the roads to Ministry of Transportation standards.

The problem, though, is that this bylaw contradicts another that was passed in 1978. The earlier bylaw places the onus for construction and maintenance on the developer, Roy

Charles Stewart Brandon

Former reeve, warden dies

The community was saddened recently to learn of one of its leading citizens, Charles Brandon. Known to just about everyone as "Slim", a nickname that belied his ample physique, Charles Brandon passed away Monday, September 26 at Civic Hospital in Peterborough.

The proprietor/partner of Northland Sales, a clothing and footwear store on Minden's Main Street, Charles Brandon was known to citizens throughout the community as a merchant, municipal politician, musician, and member of service organizations.

Charles Stewart Brandon was born October 21, 1918 in Cannington. In the mid 1930's he took over the operation of his father's bakery in that community.

During the war he served in the Royal Canadian Air Force as a member of the First Overseas Band. His membership in the band was a reflection of his musical ability, acquired at an early age and cherished throughout his life. As a member of the RCAF band, Charles would play for parades and ceremonial occasions. Several members of the band also formed a dance band under the name the RCAF Jive Bombers. During the four and a half years as a member of the dance band, Charles would find himself playing for some high profile individuals. Included among the illustrious names who listened to, danced to or performed with the Jive Bombers, were French President Charles DeGaulle, U.S. President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and comedian Jack Benny.

Following the war, he returned to Cannington and the bakery. In addition to the bakery business, he formed a dance band which travelled through-

There will be a big gap in the heart of the village with the death of Charles (Slim) Brandon. A great person, smiling and greeting everyone, and having a joke. How he enjoyed a laugh. Do some of you remember when he was sitting in Hardings and chatting with Ed over politics, or when he offered to store the books from the Public Library next door, until the new building was ready, or when you were short and he charged something when you really needed it, or the hours spent at Rotary or planning for the first Winter Carnival. Time consuming, but he never begrudged the time. We will miss you Slim!

All good wishes to Henrietta Brentnell and Lula Ferrill who celebrate birthdays on October 9 at Hyland Crest.

Pat Clarke has just returned after a visit with

If you are hurt in mind and heart,
All sweet illusions gone,

For sometime, somehow, you will find
Your miseries are left behind.

The Changing Seasons
Equinox time has come and gone,
Leaving us now with a later dawn,
The biting winds will soon be here,
Taking away our summer cheer.
We who loved to walk in the park,
Will now be seeing an earlier dark.
The children have returned to school
Once more to learn the golden rule.
So now that we have more darkness at night
We must strive even harder to keep our lives bright.
We must show each other a little more love
And still keep our trust in the Father above.

out this area playing to packed summer dances. It was on one of these engagements that he discovered the Haliburton Highlands area.

To meet the needs of tourists visiting the area, Charles opened a summer bakery at Halls Lake and in 1950 established a permanent bakery in Minden. While operating the bakery, he also dealt in some dry goods. Eventually the clothing and footwear sales surpassed that of the bakery and the Northland Sales retail outlet came into being. The business has grown steadily over the years with his son Stuart, returning to Minden to share the managerial responsibilities of the store.

Charles Brandon was a member of the Rotary Club of Minden, joining the organization in 1951, shortly after arriving in Minden. He served as president of the club in 1955-56, and in most of the major offices of the organization. Two years ago, the members of the Minden club presented Charles Brandon with a Rotary Paul Harris Fellowship, in recognition of his contribution to the organization and the community.

Prior to coming to Minden, Charles Brandon was also a Charter member of the Lions Club of Cannington.

Mr. Brandon was a member of the municipal council of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden. He was first elected as councillor in 1961 and served for four years in that capacity and as Deputy Reeve. He was elected Reeve of the municipality in 1965, a position he held for eight years before retiring from public office. Mr. Brandon was also Warden of Haliburton County in 1969.

During his years on municipal council, Mr. Brandon was instrumental in the installation of the municipal water system, the development of recreational lands on the Bobcaygeon Road and the preliminary planning for the installation of the sewer system serving the Village of Minden.

During his time on council, Mr. Brandon's approach to decision making was non-partisan. He always strove to do what he felt was best for the community as a whole, rather than attempting to satisfy a particular pressure group or lobby.

In addition to his elected positions, Mr. Brandon served for a number of years as member of the Board of Governors of Sir Sandford Fleming College in Peterborough and as Chairman of the Minden Winter Carnival Committee for a number of years. He was the organist at St. Paul's Anglican Church for 11 years. He was a Chartered Financial Planner, a position acquired after a number of years of intensive study.

In his later years, Mr. Brandon retired from most of the civic responsibilities, dividing his time between the operation of the store and personal pursuits. For the past few winters, Mr. Brandon and his wife Shirley, travelled to Florida to enjoy the milder climate.

Charles Brandon will probably be best remembered for his friendly, outgoing manner. Always one with a smile and a ready laugh, his personality emphasized the positive aspects of life and living. The community will miss a great friend in the passing of Charles Brandon.

Charles Brandon is survived by his wife

Shirley, sons Stuart and Edward and daughter Allison (Masters), and 5 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, September 28 at the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home in Minden. Interment Minden Cemetery.

At the family's request, contributions to the Minden Rotary Hospital Fund will be gratefully received in memory of Charles Brandon.

editorial Relief

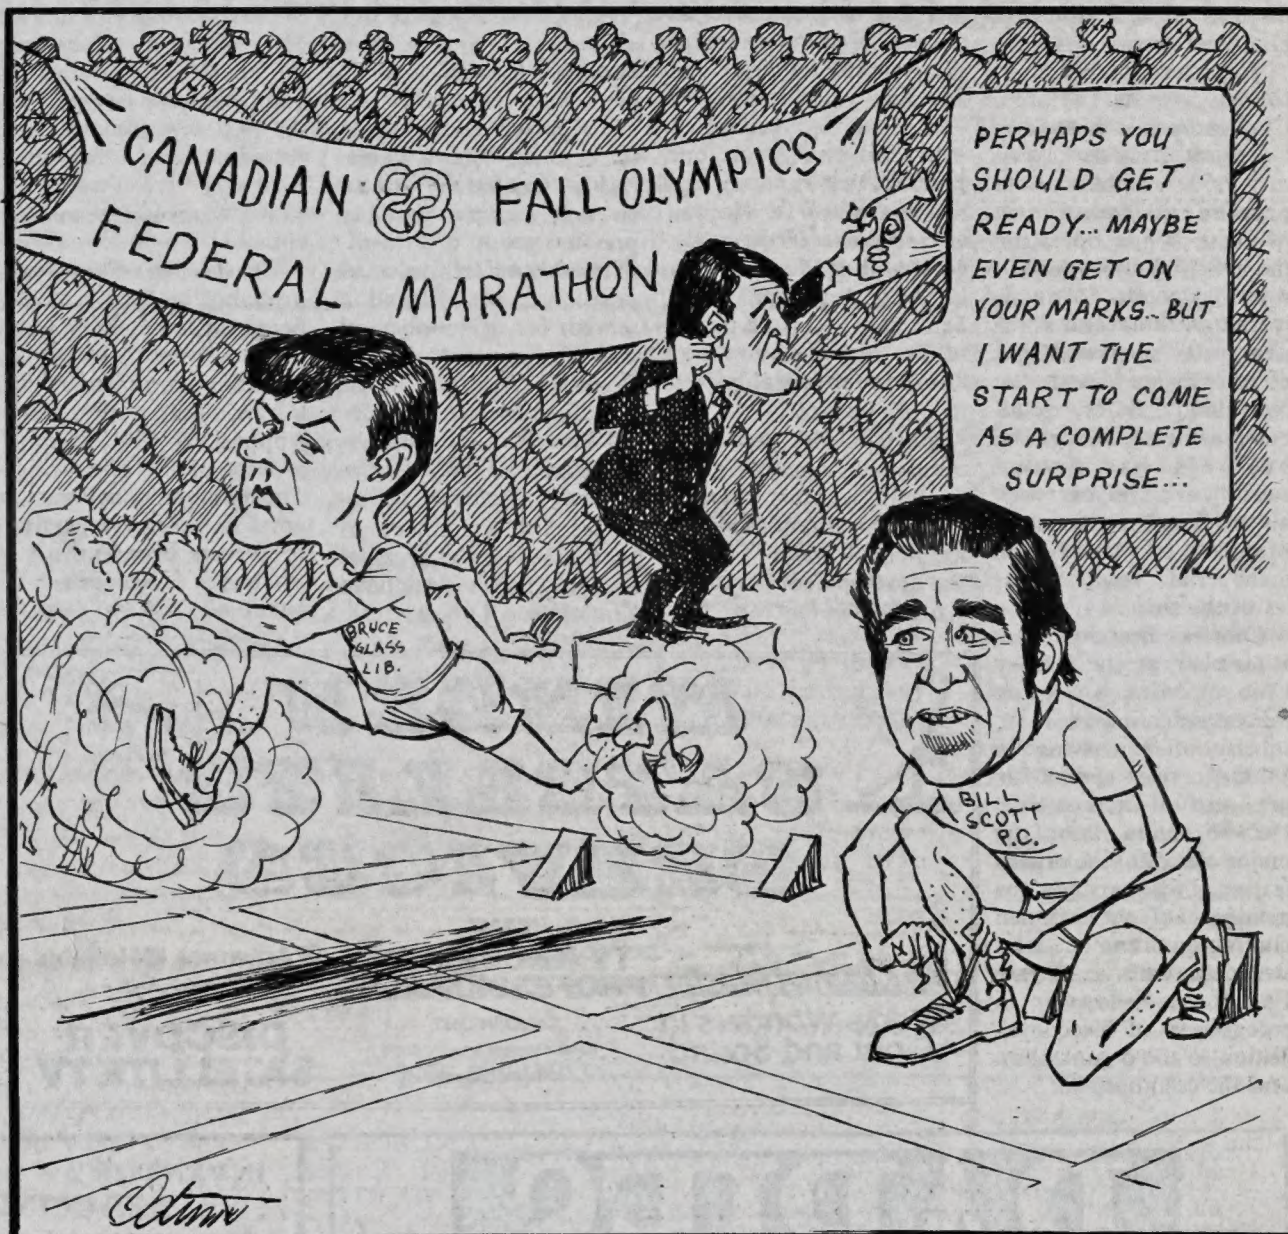

Next Monday, when people sit down to their annual Thanksgiving dinner, the people in Haliburton will have something special to be thankful for: The Trent-Severn Waterway will soon be closing for another season after tapping us dry.

In just one week the final few boats will be passing through the locks and Haliburton area lakes will plummet to their seasonal low point. The relief, though, is that the lakes will finally begin to refill in preparation for next year's recreational boating season in the waterway. And as our lakes rise, all of us who have been coping as well as possible with dry wells all summer can once again enjoy the luxury of free running water.

Few people in this county need to be told of the difficulties created by a waterway that is managed at the expense of another area. Now, though, with a federal election on the horizon, we will have an opportunity to hear what the various candidates are willing to do to help overcome this ridiculous situation.

Our present MP, Bill Scott, has avoided this problem like the plague, hoping it will go away. Well, it won't go away. And like it or not, he will be forced to come up with some answers once the election campaigning gets underway.

There will obviously be many national issues debated in this campaign. However, here in Haliburton County, the issue that should carry the most weight is that of protecting our water levels from the abuse dealt out through mismanagement and neglect by the waterway.

Poor old Switzerland

In that classic movie, The Third Man, there's a scene where Orson Welles delivers the ultimate free enterprise speech. It goes: "In Italy, for 30 years under the Borgias, they had warfare, terror, murder and bloodshed, but they produced Michaelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci and the Renaissance. In Switzerland, they had brotherly love, they had five hundred years of democracy and peace - and what did they produce? The cuckoo clock."

Poor old Switzerland. Take away the picture postcard mountains and what have you got? Toronto. The Swiss have long been perceived as bland, boring and monotonous - and unfairly so, I think.

After all, was it not the Swiss who gave us that magic talisman lusted after by every North American male from sprout-sized cub scout to aging Yuppie?

I refer of course to the Swiss Army knife. A utensil that stands out among common pocket knives as a Rolls Royce Silver Ghost would stand out in a fleet of Checker cabs.

The Swiss Army knife is the red one, with the white cross emblazoned on its flank. But that's just the outside of the knife - it's the innards that separate the Swiss Army from all the other bunk, barlow, pen, jack and clasp knives.

Packing a Swiss Army knife is like carrying a tool box in your hip pocket. Even the simplest model gives black 'n white

by Arthur Black

you a nailfile, tweezers, scissors and a toothpick along with the knife blade. But if you really want to get into it you can order the SwissChamp - which has 29 "blades" - or, for terminal gadget freaks, the SOS model which boasts 40 foldout features, including a ballpoint pen, a fish scaler, a wood saw and a magnifying glass.

Apparently a lot of North Americans do want to get into it. Last year we bought more than $25 million worth of the little red gizmos.

The Swiss have been making the knives for nearly a hundred years, but the first time they showed up in North America was in the kitbags of Canadian and American soldiers returning from Europe after World War Two. Hungry for European souvenirs, our guys had bought or swapped for them with Swiss soldiers. Since everybody in the Swiss Army seemed to carry one, our soldiers dubbed them "Swiss Army knives". The name stuck.

The North American love affair with the Swiss import shows no signs of abating. Victorinox Cutlery of Switzerland now pumps out 60 different models of the Swiss Army knife and the U.S. market alone sucks up 35 percent of them.

The question is why? Why are all we soft-palmed, pudgy-bellied, by and large urban guys buying a tool that theoretically only Robinson Crusoe could need?

Be honest - when's the last time you grabbed your pocket knife to scale a lake trout, strip an electrical wire or to read the fine print in your mortgage?

Have you ever actually tried to use the wood saw blade in a Swiss Army knife? I have. Yesterday, as an experiment I decided to "fell" a poplar about five inches in diameter out behind my place, using only my knife.

I did it, but it took a long time and left me with two blisters on my palm. I think I could've managed it a little faster if I'd just used my teeth.

So why do we keep buying them? Because we're romantics. There is a segment of the Canadian male populace, the members of which are Truly Handy. They can set the timing on their lawnmowers, find studs in the wall, mix cement, put up wallpaper and barbecue a steak to perfection. There are precisely 37 such Canadian males and they wouldn't think of buying a Swiss Army knife.

Recycling

Editor:

the 7th!

It is with pleasure that I read in your paper of a recycling meeting planned for October 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the library of J.D. Hodgson Secondary School in Haliburton to meet with representatives from the Ministry of Environment, Ontario Multi-Material Recycling Inc., Pollution Probe, County of Haliburton Waste Management Committee and the host citizens group CHANGE.

Considering that cottagers contribute up to 85 per cent of the garbage in county dumps, we must assume responsibility for determining an ecologically and environmentally safe method of disposal. The Federation of Ontario Cottager's Associations Inc. has declared waste management as the second ranking environmental on every election agenda this fall.

Haliburton County residents are to be congratulated in organizing such an important meeting and I intend to leave work early so I can be there. I hope other cottagers will make a special effort to attend this meeting and discover as I have that this is a problem I can do something about. I can manage this crisis in my back yard with my local council ... See you on

It is difficult to imagine not having an adequate supply of water for drinking, washing, and agricultural purposes. Still this is the experience for millions of people.

On Monday, October 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, Tom Low, a civil engineer with CIDA's Water Division in Ottawa, will be the guest speaker at the HAVE Committee's Annual Meeting. Mr. Low has been a consultant for many years in the area of international water supplies including water systems across Canada. He has been considerably involved with water projects in east and west Africa, and has recently returned from Peru.

Through such events as the Walk For Water, Haliburton Artists Variety Evening (November 5), personal donations, and matching contributions from CIDA, the HAVE Committee has funded the successful completion of 51 drilled wells and a water pipeline in India as well as the funding of water projects in the Gambia and Nicaragua. To learn more about HAVE's activities, and the urgency of helping those in desperate need of water, we encourage you to come to this public meeting on October 3 to hear Mr. Low.

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people who shared their time and knowledge so generously with me this summer as I gathered information for the articles that appeared in this summer's weekly supplement to The Times.

Without them, there would have been no articles and I would like them to know the central role they played in making it all possible.

Everybody was kind and enthusiastic, even on short notice, and many also provided a much appreciated cup of tea to go with our talks. It all made the pleasure of a summer in the Highlands even greater than usual.

Competing in a new global economy

I would like to discuss very briefly Volume II of the Premier's Council Report, "Competing in a New Global Economy", which contains in-depth studies of several key Ontario industrial sectors.

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

The Report finds that Ontario's forest products industry has not kept pace with fundamental shifts in the nature of competition in the international market place. As well, the food processing industry is uncompetitive in significant segments of the markets.

The Report also indicates that Ontario Hydro, because of its size, offers untapped possibilities to assist the government in achieving its economic goals.

In addition to these findings, the report contains critical studies of the following key Ontario industrial sectors: automotive manufacturing, food processing, forest products, chemical, aerospace, telecommunications, computers, lasers, biotechnology, the nuclear industry, Ontario start-up

The cutting edge

The rest of us are technological nerds. Woody Allen is our patron saint. We can barely change a lightbulb or remember which key goes in the ignition. We buy the Swiss Army knives because we think they give us an edge.

They don't of course. What they give is a huge belly laugh to those 37 Truly Handy guys. They also provide a tidy income to the Swiss Gnomes who keep selling them to us.

Those Swiss - they may be bland and monotonous - but they ain't stupid.

Volume I of "Competing in the New Global Economy."

These studies point out that, despite Ontario's healthy economy, there exists several weaknesses in key sectors. Our government is committed to working with business, labour and other partners in the economy to ensure prosperous economic growth into the next century. On another topic, I would like to refer to a new discussion paper dealing with industrial toxic contaminants.

The discussion paper calls for a province-wide program to reduce the discharge of industrial toxic contaminants to municipal sewer systems. The proposal is part of the Ministry of the Environment's waterways clean-up program, which aims to eliminate virtually all persistent toxic discharges to waterways.

Under the proposed program the ministry will place regulatory discharge limits on 22 industrial sectors that discharge to sewers. The best available technology which is economically achievable will be used to set pollution control limits.

The program, called MISA (Municipal/Industrial Strategy for Abatement), allows industries to choose how they will comply: by pre-treating or recycling their toxic waste; by changing production processes; or by substituting raw materials to avoid or reduce the generation of toxic waste. Municipalities will be required to act as the first line of enforcement of the control program.

directions

by Edward Moll

It was one of those days when the wind carried the sharp, stinging promise of fall. Already the tips of the maples across the lake were bleeding on the ridges. I was sitting on a sloping, exposed field of granite a few feet from the waterline in front of me, and the cottage a stone's throw behind me. I was waiting, thinking about what was to happen to us. Elaine carried our second child and she was waiting, thinking, too. A new life was about to come, inexorably with all the pain and joy that comes along with it.

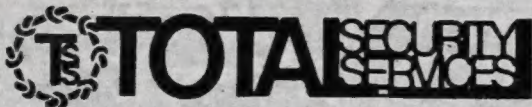

I was sitting there alone on that granite; "Shield country", I thought. Rock older than the cottage, the maples, perhaps even older than the seasons themselves. Rock formed by fire and pressure as the earth heaved, sighed, groaned and finally gave birth billions of years ago to this place. Rock shaped and moulded by uncountable tonnes of ice bearing down upon it ... I traced the fissures with my fingers and eyes. I followed the veins of pink feldspar mingled with the white quartz, wondering how they were formed. There were the grey-green mats of lichen, and a few feet to my left moss rounded out bright green after last night's rain, looking like miniature forests, imitating the hills on the opposite shore.

Time, for these few moments, stood still and flashed by at the same instant. The rock, more ancient than all the generations of humanity put together, shared with my life and the life of the little one to come very soon. I was awed by this. I marvelled at how short my time, my life was. "All life is grass. It grows and then withers away soon." I was struck by the insignificance of my presence there, of anybody's presence there, the power boats rushing by, the cottages, our insane desire to accumulate at all costs.

An ad for a beauty product came to mind: "I don't want to grow old gracefully. I want to fight it every step of the way," and I smiled at the preposterous stupidity of those words. I smiled, more sadly this time, at the way we humans fought over the silliest of things: next week's groceries, baseball statistics, money, imaginary lines drawn over God's green earth, who goes to bed with whom, the appearance of our neighbour's lawn.

That rock was a comfort; humbling, but a comfort nonetheless. The sage was right when he asked the One who lives forever: "Teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts to wisdom."

My apologies to the readers of this column for its irregularity over the last month and a half.

By the way, the waiting is over. Last Tuesday Elaine gave birth to our second child, Richard Stanley. We're going to call him Stan. All is well, and many thanks to those of you who offered their thought and prayer on our behalf. Our feelings are best summed up in big brother Simon's word when he first heard the news:

"Yippee!"

New reference opens doors

library

by Joel Levis

Patrons of the Haliburton County Public Library now have a versatile new resource at their disposal, namely access to the Canadian Periodical Index (CPI) from 1977 to date.

CPI is a bilingual reference aid listing all magazine articles published in Canada by author, title and subject. Thus, one search can identify material available in nearly 400 Canadian magazines over the last 20 years; some American magazines are included as well.

In one single step, the information retrieval capabilities of any and all of the nine branches of the Haliburton County Public Library have been greatly enhanced. These articles were always available through InterLibrary Loan but if you didn't know what was available or if you didn't have the exact information, then it might just as well not exist because other libraries couldn't find it for you to lend.

Library patrons wanting magazine articles on any subject can have a listing of the articles available prepared and subsequently request the material itself through the regular InterLibrary Loan process.

CPI has been published by the Canadian Library Association for more than 40 years and was recently sold to the Toronto Globe & Mail which has increased the number of magazines indexed dramatically.

Library users place their subject requests at any branch of the Haliburton County Library Board as they always have and will be contacted as material becomes available.

We do not have a strong reference collection in terms of magazines but this new capability makes it easier for us to resource-share with other libraries in OLS-Trent and resource sharing is the heart of the system.

Just one more example of how the Haliburton County Public Library is ... continuing to serve you since 1965.

Rabies clinics set for this week

Most people don't know that southern Ontario has the highest concentration of animal rabies in all of North America. And did you know that 50 percent of the people who come into contact with rabies are exposed to it by their household pets?

To protect you and your pets against rabies an important new rabies regulation has been introduced in this area that will ensure all dogs and cats three months of age or older have regular rabies vaccinations. It only makes sense that when your pets are protected against rabies so are you, your family and friends.

The new rabies regulation is in effect to protect everyone in our public health unit area.

The regulation means all dogs and cats, three months of age and older, must be vaccinated on an annual basis.

To make it work for all of us, low-cost vaccination clinics will be held on October 15 and 22, 1988 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at most veterinary hospitals in the counties of Northumberland, Victoria Haliburton, Hastings and Prince Edward. A few clinics will be held instead at firehalls and fair grounds. Contact your local health unit or veterinary office to confirm these clinic locations.

- Veterinarians will reduce their fee to $6.00 per animal for these special clinics. Dogs must be on a leash and cats should be in carriers.
- You will receive an immunization certificate and a rabies vaccination I.D. tag for your pet. The due date for re-vaccination will be marked on the certificate.
- The veterinarian may exempt aged or infirm pets from vaccination providing they are confined or restrained to avoid exposure to rabies.
- The maximum fine is $5,000 for anyone who fails to comply with the regulation.

It's important we all do our part. By vaccinating our dogs and cats, we protect ourselves, our families and friends. For further information about the rabies regulation, call or write your local health unit.

Victoria-Haliburton Federal Liberal candidate Bruce Glass, spoke to a gathering of Haliburton County Real Estate agents last Thursday. In his address Glass criticized the federal government's spending spree on the verge of an election. He said the Tories talked fiscal restraint and then turn around and hand out 14 billion dollars in two weeks.

Glass critical of Tories' billion dollar 'goodies' were to have their nomination meeting this past Saturday and it was expected that Scott would win the nomination uncontested. He has been the MP for this area for the past 23 years.

Although the free trade deal with the U.S. has been the focus of much of Glass' remarks about the present Tory government, he proved Thursday that he can speak knowledgeably on a variety of subjects. He was refreshingly candid with his responses to questions directed his way by area realtors.

Asked for his feelings about the imposition of a national sales tax, Glass said he would support Liberal Leader John Turner's intentions to "scuttle" the tax if elected. Instead of simplifying the tax system, the Conservatives' plan will create more complications, more loopholes and more of a burden on people with low incomes, he said.

He used the example of a new house with a value of $100,000 to demonstrate his point. A sales tax of eight per cent would add an additional $8,000 to the price, pushing it that much further out of reach for potential buyers. "It's becoming more and more difficult to own a home and this tax will work against that," he said.

"My concern is they're going to tax us through the nose," Glass said of the Tory's national sales tax scheme. People do not see a sales tax as readily as they do income taxes. That is, until it gets up around the $8,000 that would be tacked onto the price of a new house.

Ted Saxby read Scott's response to this question. Under the Conservative's plan for a sales tax, more goods will be taxed, he said, but at a lower rate. The plan will not result in more income for the federal government, he said.

Asked if his party would cut the deficit, the Liberal candidate said yes. However, he tempered this with comments that no political party is going to put a serious dent in the $28-billion deficit until the public is ready for it.

To illustrate his point, Glass asked if anyone in the audience would be willing to give up all their New Horizons grants or the grant for the Stanhope Airport. Of course, no one favoured this idea, which demonstrates that the public is not yet ready to cut back.

These "frills", which are not essential, would be the things that would have to be cut if a government wishes to reduce the deficit, he said. At some point, this will happen, but he does not believe the public is ready for it yet.

Commenting on the present government's apparent success in cutting the deficit, Glass said all is not as it appears. He said the financial statements released earlier this year were distorted to the tune of $600-million and this will show up in next year's statements.

He also criticized the Tories' recent spending spree. Over the past four years, the government has boasted fiscal responsibility. Now, "on the doorstep of an election", Glass says they have handed out more than $14-billion in goodies in just two weeks. He also noted that an additional $1-billion promise to farmers would be announced in the next few days by the government.

The Tories are saying, "We believe in fiscal responsibility until the election is here, and then the heck with it," said Glass.

In his prepared response to this question, Scott said his government would continue to cut the deficit. He said the deficit was reduced from $38.3-billion to $28.1 billion in the last three years. He predicted it would be cut further, to $19-billion over the next four years.

The government has been able to reduce its deficit by stimulating the economy, said Scott. The economy has been generating revenue for the government faster than the government has been spending it.

Monarchs fly with the birds

Fall is migration season, and the thought of thousands of birds passing through on their way south seems not at all unusual. This season is also migration time for the monarch butterfly, but it seems almost unbelievable that the fragile orange and black butterflies flitting amongst the blossoms are actually taking part in a journey thousands of miles long.

Much of the story of the monarchs has been unravelled by a Canadian scientist, Dr. Frederick Urquhart of the Royal Ontario Museum. During the 1950's, Dr. Urquhart enlisted the help of hundreds of volunteers for a unique hobby - butterfly tagging. As many as 20,000 monarchs in a single year were labelled with small paper tags, attached to one edge of the wing. Dr. Urquhart's tags were returned from the coastal states along the Gulf of Mexico, with adult monarchs making the trip from Ontario to Florida in only three weeks. However, it was not until recently that the main winter concentration of monarch butterflies was discovered, deep in the Sierra Madre mountains of Mexico.

More recent work suggests that the butterflies reproduce in the southern states in early March, before their spring flight northward to begin another life cycle here in May. Apparently the adult butterflies can control their rate of aging through their hormonal system, so that the autumn butterflies we see now age slowly, and are conditioned to cluster together and migrate rather than to reproduce again.

One of the more spectacular phenomena associated with migration is the clustering of thousands of monarchs on "butterfly trees." While these concentrations occur across the province, a trip to Point Pelee National Park during September is almost certain to turn up trees that seem to be alive with the orange flickering of resting butterflies. As you admire the beauty of this mass of butterflies, however, it is difficult not to wonder how an insect barely the weight of a paper clip finds its way through the hazards of a migration of thousands of miles.

PRODUCTS AND SERVICE YOU CAN RELY ON

Visitors always welcomed

Hello again from the Minden Lioness Club. We would like to thank everyone who donated most generously to our Bedpan Collection for the Minden Hospital Equipment Fund. Over the summer we contributed to the Minden Dinner soon.

Some of our projects to watch for are our Christmas Draw Tickets at $1.00 for three, with prizes being a Hamper ($100 value), a ceramic Christmas Tree and a Turkey. Later we will be having a Craft draw for banner in Memory of Cliff Lacey by his wife Jean. Also we have eight people with full attendance for the year, for which a pin will be given.

If anyone would be interested in visiting the Lioness Club for a meeting donation fund. These are all the donation requests and needs which come in that we don't have a specific project for.

Thought to keep - The greatest thing in the world is not so much where we stand as where we are going. Bring sunshine into others lives, and you can't keep it from yourself...

The Lions Club reminds us that the Lions International World Wide "Peace Poster Contest" is in full swing with the club supporting the following schools: Archie Stouffer, Kinmount and Norland public schools. There are 215 students involved in these schools. The three winners in each school will receive a certificate and cash prize, with the first place winner in each school going on to Multiple District Judging. Lions Maurice Boyd and George Moulton are chairing this project.

Members of the Lions Club are now taking advance orders for Christmas Cakes, any member can be contacted. soon the white stuff will be on the ground and Christmas will be upon us.

The Lions will have Hockey tickets again this year. More about these next time.

Water levels down

Haliburton Highlands reservoir water levels declined again over the past week. However with the increased shower and thunderstorm activity, the rate of decline has slowed.

The average percentage of 37.5 on September 19 is down only 2.5 per cent in a week and is now 15 per cent below the 10-year average water level.

Even as minimum releases are maintained on all tributaries to the canal system, the Kawartha lake levels are rising. Less evaporation combined with increased levels have caused a significant flow change to be made along the Otonabee River. Flows will be doubled to approximately 30 cubic metres per second in the Peterborough area while the Trent River should be something slightly higher.

It seems the weather has now switched to more normal conditions. Given this case, very little additional water will likely be drawn from the reservoirs beyond the minimum requirements for the balance of the fall season.

Buyer sought for lumber company

G.W. Martin Lumber Limited, a privately held company based in Harcourt, 50 kilometres west of Bancroft, announced today its shareholders' intention to seek a purchaser for the Martin Group of companies.

The Martin Group includes G.W. Martin Lumber Limited and its subsidiaries G.W. Martin Veneer Limited and G.W. Martin Logging Limited.

G.W. Martin in Huntsville presently employs 101 people in the hardwood sawmill, with an additional 74 employees at the maple and oak hardwood flooring plant, also in Huntsville.

The Martin Group, which generates revenues of $100 million annually, is one of the largest manufacturers of hardwood and white pine products in North America.

The Group has 1,348 employees and operates 14 facilities in Central Ontario. Last year they produced 61 million board feet of hardwood lumber, 62 million board feet of softwood lumber, 300 million square feet of rotary hardwood veneer, five million board feet of hardwood strip flooring and 614,000 pallets.

The Martin Group of Companies founded in 1958 by the late Grenville W. Martin who died in a plane crash in 1984, has experienced substantial growth over the past ten years.

The shareholders have determined that it would be in the best long-term interest of the companies and their employees to seek a major corporate purchaser to take advantage of opportunities and potential for further growth.

The Merger and Acquisitions Group of Woods Gordon/Clarkson Gordon has been retained as financial advisors in seeking a suitable purchaser.

Bylaws contradict one another

Winderover. "... maintenance and repair of said roads shall continue to be at the expense of the Developer until the said roads are approved for assumption into the Municipal Roads System by the Ministry of Transportation and Communications," the 1978 bylaw reads. The ministry never did give that approval.

The earlier bylaw is in keeping with the common practice for municipalities when assuming roads. It is normally the responsibility of the developer to bring a road up to ministry standards before the municipality takes it over.

At Monday's meeting, Nesbitt said he sympathizes with the position this puts the residents in. He said he can not understand why the second bylaw was ever passed, but said it was clearly a mistake.

"Except for a bylaw that never should have been passed, it's a private road," Nesbitt said. he told the residents that council will not spend the money to hard top the roads when there are other roads in the municipality that are more in need of attention.

The meeting was called in order for the Reeve to propose a way the roads could be paved at the residents' expense. If the total cost of $42,000 was split among the 37 properties, the cost to each property would be about $1,100. Nesbitt said that cost could be applied to their taxes and payments could be spread over a period of two years.

There was a cool response to this suggestion, though. Highland Gate resident Brendon Berube spoke on behalf of the majority of residents when he told Nesbitt he would not pay for the paving.

The blame for all this mix up lies with the municipal council of the day, Berube said. Although none of the present councillors were on council in 1982, they have inherited the problem, he said.

"I won't support my money going into such a poorly planned mess," said Berube. When an elected body makes a mistake, all taxpayers share the burden, not just a few.

Steve Adams, another resident, agreed. "None of my money will be used on that road," he said. The 1982 bylaw may have been a bad deal but the township is bound by that agreement.

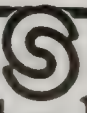

In addition to the roads, the 1982 agreement turned one building lot over to the townships. That lot was sold in February of 1987 for $9,500, which Roads Superintendent Clayton Cameron said was used for road construction.

Although the municipality is refusing to pave the road, the roads department has been providing ongoing maintenance for six years. The annual maintenance cost is about $2,800, which is borne entirely by the municipality. Municipal roads that are up to ministry standards receive a subsidy from the province for maintenance.

Despite the residents' request that council honour the agreement made through the 1982 bylaw, Reeve Nesbitt insisted that, in his opinion, it is still a private road. "I'll not use public money to pave a private road," he said. Deputy Reeve Bern Berry agreed with Nesbitt. Although, he later suggested he would vote in favour of sharing the costs evenly with the residents, an idea that was immediately dismissed by the residents.

The residents had another meeting slated for last Thursday when they were to have discussed what steps to take from here.

Redmen record climbs to two wins no losses

by Nicole McNab
HHSS student

The record for both Haliburton Redmen football team is now two wins no losses. I was at their last game at I.E. Weldon in Lindsay and watched the seniors squash Weldon Wildcats 27-0. Touchdowns were scored by Ron 'The Spider' Perrin, Brent 'Floodie' Flood, with two by Jeff Francis. The juniors put down the Wildcats 24-0 with two touchdowns by Darren 'the Destroyer' Danylyshen, and one each by Brian Waller and Craig Bain.

Hunter Obee, Shaun Perrin and Randy Bull captain the junior Redmen.

Talking with the players, I learned how they get psyched up for a game by listening to music, anything from Guns and Roses to Randy Travis. Some sat in silence. The players all agree that coaches Brohman, Davies and Yake who travelled with the team yesterday, are especially helpful in the pre-game and half-time pep talks.

Fans watching the game from the other side of the field might think the players are constantly being yelled at for things they do wrong. Believe me, I was one of them. But the players clarified that. They take the advice yelled by the coaches in the right spirit. They know they're being helped on the field as well as off.

You can't win 'em all

Editor:

I wrote this poem for our son fourteen years ago. It was printed in your paper after his Minor Hockey team lost their first game.

As last month was his twentieth birthday and possibly his last year of organized hockey, I hoped you would reprint it.

Norma J. Burk,
Minden.

He flashed on the ice amid wild yells and cheers
So sure and so brave, for all his six years
He skated so proudly, his face beamed with joy,
Such heavy equipment for such a small boy.

Protected and padded on leg, chest and hand,
Encaged in a helmet, scarce able to stand
The stick that he carried, as one might surmise,
Cut down from a big one, was still twice his size.

Then, taking his place in the great empty net,
He crouched and he signalled his mates, he was set.
The shots came on slowly; he gloved one or two.
Breakaway! The crowd settled back. He knew what to do!

Our team acted swiftly; they sunk about four
And then they were stymied; they couldn't get more
Rush after rush became an attack;
Their forwards were faster, our defense was caught back.

They filed from the ice, as if in retreat.
He'd been so used to winning...never tasted defeat!

I stood with mixed feelings, as I watched the door close -

What was he thinking? Only he knows.
How much had we taught him? How much had he learned?

Win, lose or draw, our praise must be earned.

Seconds seemed endless, the whole place had died,
What happened next made my heart burst with pride.

I heard his small voice, and I blinked back a tear
It was what I had hoped, what I prayed I would hear.

"Sorry we lost guys, but we did have a ball.
And you know what they say, boys, you can't win 'em all!"

The Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation recently announced a program to aid low-income homeowners when an emergency repair is needed to their dwelling.

The new program is called just that, Emergency Repair Program (ERP), and is designed to provide emergency funding to a household when an emergency repair occurs and funds are not available.
A maximum of up to $1500 will be paid as a one-time non-repayable contribution. Canada Mortgage and Housing requires that the dwelling be in a rural area, the principal residence of the applicant and that the repair is needed to enable the occupant to maintain continued safe habitation of the house.

compliments at the Redmen bench. The players are congratulating each other on a previous play. In this sport a pat on the helmet or a slap on the butt goes a long way on the field. Coach Brohman often refers to his team as members of his family.

Manager Tammy Cox, Kimberley Johnson, Tracy Bull and trainer Justin Gentle are always there when someone needs a helping hand. This support crew is happy that the players and coaches think of them as part of the team.

I've always had questions about the game but I always hesitated to ask. I often wondered what was going through the mind of a player as he stood face to face with another player. The Redmen from both junior and senior teams answered me by saying hate to a strong desire to kill. Paul Robinson thinks of the inferiority of the other team.

I also asked about their feelings toward the fans. Of course, they said they loved their fans who can be quite an influence on the outcome of a game. But they also admitted that at times they have to tune out the fans because they need to keep their sense of concentration. This is quite understandable.

What unites the Redmen is the common goal among the players of making it to COSSA and then winning. A tremendous amount of enthusiasm and energy and most of the all the bond of faith, trust and respect between the coaches and the players is present at the Redmen bench.

I hope that both our Redmen teams make it to COSSA. I believe that with the coaches and players we have this year, it is a great possibility.

So look out Fenelon, Weldon and LCVI, because here come the Haliburton Redmen.

Good luck Redmen, Corrie Gartshore for we'll all be rooting for ya!! helping me gain new insights into the game of football.

A special thanks to football.

OCTOBERThe Great
Celestial Sea

Occupying the southeastern quadrant of the sky at this time of year, in an area the ancients imagined to be a great celestial sea, are the "watery constellations." Aquarius the Water Bearer is the only human represented, and is in the company of several sea creatures: Pisces the Fishes, Pisces Austrinus the Southern Fish, Cetus the Whale (sometimes called a sea monster), a dolphin (Delphinus), and Capricornus, a bizarre creature, half goat and half fish. Although not suitably located for northern stargazers, the River Po (Eridanus) and a crane (Grus, a wading bird) may be also considered part of the group. On ancient star charts water flowing from the water vessel held on the shoulder of Aquarius is depicted as the source of the River Po. Three of the "watery constellations" lie along the zodiac: Aquarius, Pisces, and Capricornus.

A single brilliant star, Fomalhaut, in the constellation Pisces Austrinus highlights the group. It is so isolated from other bright stars that it has been called the "solitary one." In all other respects this constellation is completely inconspicuous. The other "watery constellations" are endowed with a number of naked-eye stars, but the area of the celestial sea displays such a subtle beauty that it is best seen from a dark observing site on a clear, moonless night.

Look for the rather faint stars of Cetus near the southeastern horizon. Pisces is located above it. Early star charts show the tails of the two fishes of this constellation tied together by ribbons arranged in the form of a "V" with a knot at its point. The Northern Fish is south of Andromeda and the Western Fish is beneath the four stars that distinctly outline the Great Square of Pegasus.

Face south to find Aquarius and Capricornus. They are above and west of brilliant Fomalhaut. Lovely little Delphinus is above them, a little south and west of the zenith.

A Dolphin in the Sky

Just a touch of imagination is needed to "see" the miniature dolphin contained by the five naked eye stars in this lovely little jewel-like constellation. Face south and look high overhead. First locate the three brilliant stars of the Summer Triangle. Delphinus lies outside its eastern arm, a line formed by joining Deneb and Altair.

A curious bit of trivia surrounds the names of two stars in this constellation given to them by the nineteenth-century astronomer Piazzi, of the Palermo Observatory. Called Sualocin (Alpha) and Rotanev (Beta), they are the names of Piazzi's assistant, Nicolaus Venator, spelled in reverse.

Colleges to get residences

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

I would like to discuss two new initiatives introduced by our government regarding scientific health care research and college residences.

First, an important new policy will permit Ontario's 22 colleges to build and maintain student residences.

Under the original mandate dating back to the announcement of the creation of the college system in 1965, only colleges in Northern

Power skating offered

A new feature of Introduction to Power Skating has been introduced at the Haliburton Arena by the Minden and Haliburton Figure Skating Clubs. It started last Sunday with David Hollows as the instructor.

This program is designed to give the hockey players the proper way of skating and getting the adequate use of their skates.

The response is really good from both Minden and Haliburton and it is good to see the two villages working together for the betterment of the boys. If anyone would like to know any more about this program, please contact either skating club.

Just a reminder that the Minden Skating club starts October 17 at 4:00 p.m.

Ontario were allowed to provide residence facilities. In addition, some southern colleges inherited residences with nursing programs when these programs were transferred to colleges in 1973. This change will provide some relief to the student housing problem. Up to $100 million in Canada Pension Plan funds will be made available, at lower than market interest rates, to finance mortgages for residences.

In Lindsay, a great portion of Sir Sandford Fleming College students come from areas outside of Lindsay. About one-third of full-time students attending Ontario's colleges now have a permanent address more than 40 kilometers from the college.

The new initiative will compliment the government's "housing first" policy by reducing the competition for affordable housing between students and low-income earners.

On another subject, our government recently awarded over $5 million in grants to researchers, as part of $25 million commitment to scientific health care research.

A new grants program is also now available which is intended to link researchers and health care providers in studies leading to changes in the province's health care system.

To be eligible for these grants, investigators must be based in Ontario at a non-profit health-related facility. Applicants need not be physicians - anyone working in the health field may apply if they meet the stated criteria. A unique feature of the new grants program, known as Health System-Linked Research Units, accentuates applied research. It emphasizes a strong link between researchers who produce results and health care providers who can put their findings to immediate use.

Every year the health ministry provides substantial research funding to the Addiction Research Foundation, the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation and the Ontario Mental Health Foundation. This year, funding for research projects will total almost $10 million.

Autumn happenings at Staunworth Court

"The colour deepens on the distant hillside..."

"Now from the lake the silver mist is rising..."

"It's time to close the cottage and go home..."

(Excerpts from Autumn On The Lake by Jean Mc. Brown which so appropriately describes our countryside this fall.)

Many of our residents spent the summer visiting or being visited, and hope next summer is not quite so hot and humid.

Among those on the sick list and needing hospital care were Holly Cooper, Melissa Hampson, and Harry Cowan. Holly and Melissa spent some time in hospital after each had very serious operations. Harry remained in hospital some time under observation. We welcome you all back home and our sincere Get Well Wishes go out to each of you.

Our sincere sympathy goes out to Corinne Bonneville on the death of her husband; and to Carry Vasey on the death of her brother, Arnold Gartshore.

Corinne and Hector Arsenault have recently returned from Thunder Bay where Corinne attended a Housing Conference.

Sincere birthday wishes go out to those whose birthdays were during the summer months. They are Emily Poole, Harry Cowan, Melissa Hampson, Janet Perry, Doris Foster, Jean Cowan and Len Trodd.

Mel and Doris recently returned from an enjoyable bus trip to Atlantic City, U.S.A.

A very sociable time was spent playing euchre at the Library this summer. However, this has been concluded there, and we next meet with the ladies at St. Paul's Anglican church. Proceeds from the Library games went to the Shuffleboard committee.

Due to the extreme heat this summer, our shuffleboard activities were almost nil, as also our barbecue get togethers. However, we look forward to another happy session next year. Thanks to our 'chef' Len.

Our Resident's Social Club held its regular meeting with Pres. Holly officiating. (Good to see you home after your surgery. Keep well, Holly.) We were drawn attention to the ruling that all visitors must use the space set aside for them by the tennis court.

Our County Fair and the Annual Flower Show were most successful and enjoyed by us. The display of the crafts, food, and flowers showed much talent both in the creation and showing. The talent show emceed by Bill Payne; the three horse hitch; the Highland dancing, among others, really merits much recognition. (My own observation).

September 21 - 1 mm rain, 4.9 pH, from north and central Ontario.

September 22 - 7 mm rain, 3.9 pH from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and southern Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Congratulations go out to Janet Perry on the lovely wedding of her daughter, Katie and Doug Voiccy. The bride looked beautiful.

Eleanor Ferris, Eleanor Pye, Carrie Vasey, and Margaret Horsley enjoyed the bus trip sponsored by Home Support Services. This trip took us to the beautiful Gallery on the Lake at Buckhorn. A School of Fine Arts is also on the grounds overlooking the scenic lake. From there we visited the Curve Lake Indian Reserve. Displays of authentic examples of crafts by the Whetung Ojibway Indians were shown as well as art in their grand Art Gallery, one of the largest in North America. We proceeded on to the Summer Theatre in the lovely old Academy in Lindsay. There we watched a scary story unfold - properly named 'And When I Woke'. It was capably and professionally performed by the Kawartha Summer Theatre group and although our nerves were a bit jarred we truly enjoyed it. Next in order was supper prepared by the Bonfire Restaurant. It was a delicious meal and helped settle our nerves as well as our appetites. Delighted with the day, (missing the rain at each stop) we were glad to see Mark V. waiting to meet us from the bus and see us home. (By the way, he also saw us away in the morning in his car). Many thanks Mark. Many thanks also go out to Darlene McElwain who kindly kept us in line, and Jack Barley, our kind bus driver.

Recently Jean and Art Marsh had a very interesting trip scheduled for the Northwest Territories. On reaching Swan Hills (north Alberta), they were turned back due to a landslide just north of Swan Hills.

Heavy rains caused much flooding and many homes and people were destroyed and lost. They turned south and took in the beauty of the Rockies at Banff and Jasper Parks. I was very interested in the pictures that Jean took of the various places of note to her, such as - the mountain glaciers; the parched grain fields (sad to see); the Museum at Drumheller, the home of the dinosaurs; the Mennonite homes near Steinbach where the famous Legion Cookbooks originate; the small salt lakes that dot the Prairies, concentrating at Potash where mining takes place; the precipitous cliffs that hugged the highway along the shores of Lake Superior, and the lovely Manitoulin Island and its ferry that brought Jean and Art closer home near Midland. From there they finalized a very eventful and enjoyable trip which made Jean conclude in her discussion with me - "Boy, I'm glad to be a Canadian" and I agreed. Thank you Jean for sharing with me your trip and we are glad you folks are home again.

Well, dear readers, no doubt you have read these items of news with mouth wide-open, so now you can stop yawning. Enjoy the beauty of the Fall and smell of the air, and thank God for it all. See you later. - M.H.

IN MEMORIAM

McKELVEY: In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather.

We watched you suffer,
We watched you sigh,
But all we could do was just stand by,
When the time came, we suffered too,
For you never deserved,
What you went through.
God took your hand, we had to part,
He eased your pain, but broke our hearts,
If you could have spoken before you died,
These are the words you would have replied,
This life for me has truly passed,
I have loved you all to the very last.
Weep not for me, but courage take,
And love one another for my sake,
Don't cry for me, I'm only sleeping,
We will meet again some day.

Lovingly remembered by wife Elevean, children Jerry, Collin and Cherie, granddaughter Elishya and son-in-law Sid.
